The Sustainable Development Goals are a global call to action to end poverty, protect the earth's environment and climate, and ensure that people everywhere can enjoy peace and prosperity. Egypt, in its pursuit of action to achieve its vision 2030 encourages research in different fields to boost the economy. Therefore, in its call for research, MCOM has a specified action with indicators, baselines, and targets as it develops a scientific methodology to measure its performance and track progress. In the research required, MCOM is following the sustainable development principle as a general framework for improving the quality of lives and welfare, considering the rights of new generations in a prosperous life; thus, dealing with three main dimensions; economic, social, and environmental. Research is based upon the SDS principles of “Inclusive Sustainable Development” and “Balanced Regional Development”; emphasizing the full participation in development, and ensuring its yields to all parties. There is also a special focus in research for “Equal opportunities for all, closing development gaps, and efficient use of resources to ensure the rights of future generations” and supporting marginalized and vulnerable groups. This will lead to prosperity, welfare, happiness, and social and economic development, which will qualify Egypt to become a leader in the field of research in the Arab world and Africa.
